

CHAD HARRISON

i n t e r n a t i o n a l

FEMALE REPRESENTATION IN LEADERSHIP ROLES

Female representation in S&P 500 companies

Only 5.2% of S&P 500 companies have a female CEO. The majority of women in leadership roles are found within support and mid level management roles. Only one fifth of board seats are made up of women.

"If you are alone you are a hostage, if you are two you are in danger of becoming suffragettes, if you are three you become normality, if you are four or more it's balanced."

Ursula Saint Leger, Senior Vice President HR – Member of the executive committee – Aptar.

The roles women perform in business leadership

HR Director: 23%

Chief Financial Officer: 21%

Chief Marketing Officer: 11%

Corporate controller 10%

Chief Executive Officer 9%

Chief Operations Officer 8%

Sales Director 8%

One third of global business have no women in senior management roles